MULES SELL CHEAP.

Farmers Bid Spiritedly on Large Animals, But Stall on the Colts.—Five Teams For One Farmer at $160.

Joe Kindig, the well known dealer in mules, of York, sold twenty head of Kentucky-bred mules at the livery barn in Centre Hall, Saturday afternoon. A large number of farmers were on hand despite the rain which began falling two hours before the sale and continued until the last animal was sold. While there seemed to be a desire for the long-eared beasts on the part of the farmers, it was older and larger mules that were wanted as was proven when the first team of 2800-lb. animals was brought before auctioneer Mayes. This team started at $400 and jumped by fifty-dollar bids until knocked down to Shook Brothers of Penn Hall for $575. One other fair-sized team was sold but of the lot of twenty, fourteen head were colts and failed to impress the would-be purchasers very strongly. While they were an extra good lot, so far as mules go, the average farmer was not over enthusiastic in the prospect of two years' feeding to bring the animals to the size necessary for heavy farm work. The bidding on the colts was therefore discouraging to Mr. Kindig, who was holding his first sale here; and he appeared to show a feeling of solicitude for the farmers who were, figuratively speaking, allowing gold dollars to lay in the mud before them. For one man, at least, the desire for mule colts was strong. James S. Weaver, of Aaronsburg, purchased five teams at an average price of $160. On three teams his first bid of $150 was never raised. The following are the purchasers and prices paid:

Shook Brothers, Penn Hall, 1 team	$ 575 00
Charles Stoner, Tusseyville, 1 team	380 00
W. G. Runkle, Bellefonte, 1 team	302 50
Gregg Carper, Linden Hall, 1 team	200 00
Henry Lingle, Tusseyville, 1 team	182 50
James S. Weaver, Aaronsburg, 5 teams	800 00
Total for 20 head	$2410 00

MR. GARRISON'S RESIGNATION.

Secretary Garrison's retirement is regrettable in the same way that the defection of any in a family such as is the Cabinet is regrettable. It is not particularly significant except as an illustration that some men cannot reconcile some of their beliefs and ideas. It is in no sense a cleavage between the President and Mr. Garrison on political lines. They differed on two policies just as any two honest men may differ and Mr. Garrison seeing no opportunity of reaching an agreement does the only thing left to do,—resigns.

This is not the first resignation from a presidential cabinet because of differences of opinion nor will it be the last. Where honest men abide, there must be differences of opinions and it is a tribute to the honesty of expression of the present cabinet that such withdrawals have occurred. Where men play politics or any game, leaving conscience outside, dissimulation and hypocrisy may be expected. Such deceits cannot be charged to the Wilson cabinet.

It is apparent that Mr. Garrison was wed to his continental army plan and held a different view from the congressional majority on the independence of the Philippines. In an interview given April 20, 1913, he admits a congenital and unwavering adherence to his own convictions.

Thus he said:

I never could obey orders in the matter of opinions. Universal belief carries no weight with me. Another man's convictions are heard through politeness or interest but they utterly fail to convince.

I claim no moral or intellectual credit for the peculiar quality of my mind, any more than I can claim responsibility for my height or the color of my eyes. I was born as I am, and there the case ends so far as I am concerned.

Orders always irritate me. A program of conduct can never be carried out. It was so when I was a boy at school. I became a rebel the moment the teacher said the lesson would be so and so the next day. Going home, I would study something else. I wasn't obstinate, but a task was odious and a command made me an outlaw at once.

Mr. Garrison admits his inability to do otherwise. Consequently he retires. He has been a faithful, upright official, intensely loyal to the President, a credit to the administration and he remains a friend of the President who does not hesitate in accepting the resignation to confess his obligation.

His resignation is regrettable but it is not dishonorable.—Harrisburg Patriot.

Last week a federal officers was at State College in the interest of the new federal building to be erected there. Two properties, those of Charles Woodring and Mrs. Elizabeth Price, were purchased by the government at a price of $14,400. The site is located on the corner of Beaver avenue and Allen street.

TEACHERS' LOCAL INSTITUTE FOR THIS DISTRICT.

First Session Friday Evening.—Prof. Charles Lose, Principal Lock Haven Normal, Promises to be Here.

A teachers' local institute will be held in Grange Arcadia, this week. The first session will be held Friday evening, commencing at 7:30 o'clock, and there will be another session Saturday morning. The district is composed of Centre Hall borough, Potter and Gregg township.

Those in charge of obtaining speakers for the institute have indeed been fortunate in the quality of the material secured. Prof. Charles Lose, principal of the Lock Haven State Normal School, is a powerful speaker, and especially on the subject of schools does he rank among the foremost in the state. Prof. Jonas E. Wagner, principal of the Bellefonte schools, is another recognized authority on school subjects, and he with Prof. Lose will discuss the subject of "Community and the School."

A number of recitations, dialogues, and a pantomine by students of the local high school, will also occupy periods on the program.

This institute promises to be the best one in years, and the public is cordially invited to be present at both sessions.

A "West Point" at State College.

State College as the West Point of Pennsylvania is the plan of Governor Brumbaugh and Dr. E. E. Sparks, president of the institution.

A thorough course of military training for the students equal to that offered to the cadets at the nation's training school for officers is being urged. This training together with the engineering courses now taught would bring the state into the very front in the campaign for preparedness by supplying annually large numbers of young men competent to officer a volunteer army.

Dr. Sparks is working on Governor Brumbaugh's suggestion that the college cadet regiment be developed to match that at West Point. Men fully as competent to officer troops as the graduates of the army training school can be turned out at the college, it is said.

Governor Brumbaugh expressed in his letter to President Sparks the belief that if State College men had greater military training and bearing it would be their supremest recommendation as graduates and the training would bring a large return to the state in defence.

Grove Tells Judge He is Dead.

The following is reprinted from the Omaha (Nebraska) News, under date of February 10:

Earl M. Grove, Centre Hall, Pa., in police court this morning on a vagrancy charge, said he could not be sent to jail because he was dead.

"I have been dead since December 21, 1913," he told Judge Foster.

"What shall I do with you?" the magistrate asked.

"Thy will be done, O Lord," was the reply.

After telling the prisoner that he was mistaken in his identity, Judge Foster sent him to jail for ten days, pending examination of his mental condition.

"Pay Up Week" Starts Monday.

Next week is the time set for the National "Pay-Up Week"—February 21 to 26, and everywhere the matter is being taken seriously. Let's start that dollar or more on a round to pay the butcher, baker and candle-stick maker. Everybody will be happy and a heap of debts paid.

"Pay-Up Week" campaigns have been successfully operated in the west and it is now proposed to make it an annual national affair.

"You pay me, I'll pay you"—February 21 to 26.

Caught in Belt; Killed.

His clothing catching in the belt used in operating a saw mill gasoline engine, George Benfer, a young man of Kratzerville, Snyder county, was whirled and hurled crashing into the fly wheel of the engine. His pelvis was crushed and severe internal injuries were sustained. Benfer died an hour after the accident occurred, Monday evening of last week. The man was twenty one years old.

"Pennsylvania Trees," by Illick, is a new volume issued by the State Department of Forestry. The book is not of the dry, statistical sort, but contains a lot of valuable information on a subject that has at last come home to the American people, namely, the conservation of American forests. The Reporter is indebted to Leonard G. Barner, the local forester, for a copy. Mr. Barnes is proud of the fact that he had a part in its compilation.

25 ELK ON WAY EAST.

Direct from the Wilds of Wyoming the Elk Will be Turned Loose in Game Preserve in Cameron County, This Week.

A consignment of twenty-five elk is being shipped to Pennsylvania from Wyoming, destined for the Hicks Run game preserve, in Cameron county. The elk are due to arrive there this week and they will be immediately released at the state game preserve. The animals will be unloaded at Howard Siding, five miles above Emporium, and placed in racks to be hauled seven miles by wagon to the preserve, where they will be turned loose. Howard Eaton, of Wyoming, who is engaged in capturing the twenty-five elk, is accompanying the animals to see that they arrive in good condition.

Later in the winter fifty deer will be turned loose in the preserve, it is said. There are at present a few deer in that section but no elk. The state will purchase a hundred elk and 1500 deer this winter, to be turned loose in various sections of the state. Of the 100 elk purchased it is fortunate that that section should get a fourth of the number. The vicinity around Hicks Run is such as to provide a good place for elk, and in several seasons the herd should increase in number. The deer which will be shipped to this state later are being taken from the wilds of Wisconsin and Michigan. The elk that will be received for the Hicks Run preserve are wild, and were taken right out of the woods and loaded onto the railroad car for shipment. The twenty-five animals are being shipped in one car, all the animals being loose in the car. They are described as being fine elk, and some of the best specimens that are running wild in the state of Wyoming.

State Game Protector Kelly has written to the State Game Commission in an effort to get some ringnecked pheasants for that locality. The game commission is sending shipments of these birds throughout the state, and as that section is especially adapted for them, it is believed that not a few will be turned loose in the woods near Du Bois. An effort is also being made to get some for that section.

LOCALS

Mrs. H. C. Shirk spent a few days last week with her brother, J. B. Royer, in Altoona.

Lyman Smith shipped one or two car loads of wheat from the Centre Hall station, paying $1.25 per bushel for it.

A big dance was held in Grange Arcadia, Friday night. Deitrich's orchestra from Bellefonte furnished the music.

If owners would loosen up on vacant lots there might be a few additional dwelling houses go up in Centre Hall during the coming summer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Tressler, substantial citizens of Linden Hall, favored this office with a call on Monday afternoon. Mr. Tressler arranged for the printing of the bills for his sale, to be held on Wednesday, March 22nd.

The Bell Telephone exchange has been wired for electric lighting. The operators are real saucy in their new quarters and think the new lighting system puts them on a par with any exchange in Central Pennsylvania.

"Cut out that ad., I've sold all them shoats," is the way an advertiser who expended a quarter for a small space in the Reporter's columns, burst into the office one day this week. He finds the way to reach the buyer is through publicity. And he's right.

A day before the mule sale no one could find a prospective buyer for the long-eared Kentucky bred product, but as soon as the animals were put onto the sales block bids came fast enough to make a mighty respectable sale, one buyer not being satisfied with less than ten of the docile beasts. A further account of the sale appears in this issue.

Richard Brooks purchased the gasoline lighting plant used since last spring in the Reporter office and postoffice. The plant will be installed in his residence on the Boozer farm, west of Centre Hall. Merchant C. F. Emery also disposed of a similar plant used to light his store room, and this means that electricity will be used in its stead.

Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Wilson of Elizabeth, Illinois, were arrivals in Centre Hall the latter part of last week, this being their first trip east since leaving Centre Hall ten years ago. Mr. Wilson is now conducting a creamery, which he owns, in Illinois, and is doing a good business. He is in a real dairying section, some of his customers handling as many as one hundred cows. While Mr. and Mrs Wilson were pleased to see their many friends in Centre Hall, their real mission in Pennsylvania is to be present at the fiftieth marriage anniversary of the former's parents, who are located in Howard.

DEATHS.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Taylor died suddenly at the home of her sister, Mrs. William Parker, three miles west of Centre Hall, Thursday night. She had recently recovered from an illness with grip and on Thursday night retired at 9:30 o'clock in apparent good health. A short time thereafter her sister and daughter heard a thud upstairs and upon making an investigation found Mrs. Taylor on the bedroom floor in an unconsious condition, death resulting before a doctor could be summoned. Apoplexy caused her death. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Treaster and was born in Penns Valley, July 19, 1854, hence was in her sixty-second year. Surviving her are about ten children; also two sisters and two brothers, namely, Mrs. William Parker, near Centre Hall; Mrs. David Parker, Johnstown; John and George Treaster, Potter township. Mrs. Taylor resided in Williamsport and for the past few months was visiting at her sister's home.

Funeral services were held Monday morning at the house and burial followed in the cemetery at Centre Hall, Rev. W. H. Williams of the Methodist church officiating.

Miss Beatrice Helen Riden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Riden, of Reedsville, died in the Lewistown hospital Wednesday evening of last week following an operation for appendicitis. She was teaching the second grade of the Reedsville school when she took ill. Her age was twenty-eight years. Surviving her are her parents, a brother and two sisters. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon and burial made at Reedsville.

Miss Riden was at different times a guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Bradford, in this place, and had a number of friends here who will learn of her death with much sorrow.

The body of Mrs. Mary Zerby, who died at Avis, Monday of last week, aged eighty-four years, ten months and three days, was taken to State College Friday morning to the home of her grand-daughter, Mrs. Breton Shope. Burial was made Friday afternoon at Pine Hall.

Mrs. Zerby is survived by three children: John H. Wolf, of State College; Mrs. Benjamin Breon, of Spring Mills and William Wolf, of Orangeville, Nebraska.

Benjamin J. Confer, a native of Centre county, died at his home near McConnel, Illinois, Wednesday of last week, aged eighty years. More than sixty years ago he emigrated to the state of Illinois with his parents, where he engaged in farming. Nine children, six boys and three girls, survive him. Burial was made in the west last Friday.

Rival Editors are Dead.

A striking coincidence was the death the other day of M. N. Aller, founder of the old Titusville Courier, a Democratic paper, which ran for many years in opposition to the Titusville Morning Herald, Republican, one of the founders of which was Col. J. H. Cogswell, whose funeral took place the day before.

Mr. Allen succeeded Mr. Cogswell as postmaster in the early '70s and both died in their eighty-eighth year.

Population Passes 100,000,000 Mark.

Census bureau experts estimated this week that the population of the United States on January 1 last, was 101,208,315 and that by July 1 it would be 102 017,302. Western states have led in the growth, Washington heading the list with Oklahoma, Nevada, North Dakota and New Mexico following in the order named.

A religious census of the 2319 students at State College reveals the following church preferences: Presbyterian church, 613; Methodist, 498; and the Lutheran, 322. There are 166 members of the Reformed church at Penn State, and there are 153 Roman Catholics. Other popular denominations are: Protestant Episcopal, 123; Baptist, 99; Hebrew, 50; United Presbyterian, 37; United Brethren, 32; Society of Friends, 27; Evangelical, 22; Congregationa', 13; Brethren, 11; Disciples, 8; Schwenkfelder, 2; Christian Science, 6; Moravian, 5; Mennonite, 5; Universalist, 4; Unitarian, 4; Church of Christ, 4. Only 99 of the entire enrollment failed to go on record as church goers.

Last week the County Commissioners received a draft from the State Treasurer for $4,915, as a partial reimbursement for money paid out for bounties to July 25th, 1915. The State withheld enough to cover the alleged bounty frauds perpetrated in this county.

SMITH—McCOOL NUPTIALS.

Pretty Home Wedding in Which Popular Penns Valley Young People are Principal Figures.

A very pretty home wedding took place on Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock, at the J. H. McCool residence, near Tusseyville, when Miss Mattie McCool and Charles S. Smith were pronounced husband and wife by the Rev. D. S. Kurtz, the bride's pastor. As Miss Lottie Snyder, a cousin of the bride, rendered "The Bridal Chorus," the young couple entered the parlor where were gathered the nearest relatives of the bride and groom, besides a few intimate acquaintances. The beautiful ring ceremony of the Lutheran church was used. Immediately following the ceremony choice refreshments were served.

The bride appeared beautiful in her gown of blue silk net over white satin, and carried a bouquet of white carnations, the gift of the groom's sister, Miss Nellie Smith. The groom was attired in navy blue.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McCool and would have been graduated from the Susquehanna University, where she was taking a course in music, in June. The groom is the second son of ex-Register J. Frank Smith, and is at present teaching the grammar grade of the Potters Mills schools. Following the close of the present term, in March, the groom and his bride will start farming on the McCool farm at Tusseyville. Both enjoy the friendship of a great number who wish them years of happiness and prosperity.

The following invited guests witnessed the ceremony: J. Frank Smith, Miss Nellie Smith, Bellefonte; Mrs. D. S. Kurtz, Miss Lottie McCool, Centre Hall; Miss Kathryn McCool, Spring Mills; Miss Lottie Snyder, Laurelton; Mrs. H. I. Faust, Charles Faust, Miss Mary Byers, Thomas Horterman, Centre Hill; Mrs. P. C. Brungart, Misses Emelyn, Thelma and Loraine Brungart, Tusseyville.

Wins Fight Single Handed.

The Brookville Republican is very jubilant because under the able editorship of John C. Dicht it has won its fight for a dry county. The real fight was last year over the judgeship and was very bitter, the Republican standing alone.

Jefferson county, a large one, has something like 45 licenses and as many opportunities for renewals. All of these were refused by the new judge and for the first time in its history the county is dry. An aftermath of the fight is the $100,000 libel suit filed by the defeated judge against the Republican and which will be heard in April.

The Only Centre Hall.

Our dear old Centre Hall is the only Centre Hall in all the United States—she is alone in the list. Uncle Sam persists in transposing the last two letters in Centre Hall, and spelling Centre Center, but we can't help that. Centre Hall or Center Hall, we have the only postoffice by that name, and consequently a letter addressed to John McClenahar, Centre Hall, U. S. A., will reach him.

Shot a Wild Cat Near Howard.

John Kelley, one of Howard's foremost hunters, shot a large wild cat, measuring over five feet in length, Thursday afternoon, between Howard and Jacksonville.

Mr. Kelley took the trophy to a store in Lock Haven where it was exhibited to the envious and admiring gaze of the local hunters.

Penn State's Baseball Schedule.

Penn State's baseball schedule for the coming season was announced last week. Twenty-eight games will be played, thirteen of which will be played at home. The Chinese University, which for the past few years was an attraction during commencement week, is not on the schedule this year. The following are the "home" games:

April 1—Susquehanna University, at State College.
April 8—Dickinson College, at State College.
April 12—Bucknell University, at State College.
April 15—Gettysburg College, at State College.
April 27—Lafayette College, at State College.
April 29—University of West Virginia.
May 10—Washington & Jefferson, at State College.
May 13—Carnegie Tech, at State College.
May 16—Lebanon Valley College, at State College.
May 27—Franklin & Marshall College, at State College.
June 10—Syracuse, Pennsylvania or Lehigh, at State College.
June 12—University of Pittsburgh, at State College.
June 13—University of Pittsburgh, at State College.

State College is considering laying a petition before the Court of Quarter Sessions praying for the dividing of that borough into two voting precincts. The handling of six hundred voters by one election board is said to entail a too great amount of work.

L. L. Smith last week purchased a comparatively new Ford touring car from Walter Hosterman, of Farmers Mills. The Ford will be a running mate to the high-class King car in the Smith livery.

Charles S. Burris, who several years ago moved from near Centre Hall to Milroy where he was employed in a stocking factory, this week moved his family to Dewart where he accepted a position in the Sheffer ice cream plant.

The local K. G. E. lodge has invited the degree team of the Milroy lodge to confer the first degree upon a class here Friday night of next week. If weather conditions are favorable the Milroy team will be here in goodly numbers.

Keep in mind the Dutch Supper to be given in Grange Arcadia, Saturday evening. The ladies of Lady of the Valley Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F., have given much care to the preparation of a choice menu and your epicurean tastes will be well satisfied.

Announcement has been made of the arrival of a nine-pound baby girl at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Miller, in West Philadelphia. The stork made its arrival on Friday. Mrs. Miller will be better known as Elizabeth Saunders, formerly of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Barner, of Clintondale, figured in an upset one day last week which resulted in painful bruises to both. While on their way to Lock Haven their horses became frightened at the engine at the station and upset the wagon, throwing Mr. and Mrs. Barner to the ground..

Kerlin & Son, proprietors of the Grand View Poultry Farm, at Centre Hall, have over two thousand eggs hatching. They have one order for over one thousand chicks, two for five hundred and a number of smaller orders. Of course, the first hatch now on is only a starter of the real business to follow.

James S. Swab, tenant on the ex-Sheriff A. B. Lee farm, near Penns Cave Station, will make sale of household goods and a few farm implements on Wednesday, March 8th, and quit the farm, moving to Spring Mills where he will be employed by Hon. William Allison. Charles Poorman of Nittany Valley will succeed Mr. Swabb on the place.

Mifflin county will have a new industry when the ganister quarries open up, which will be in the near future. Ground has already been broken and as there has been found to be millions of tons of the best grade of this rock the industry promises to be a lasting one. The quarries are located in the Lewistown Narrows. The rock will be shipped to Johnstown, pulverized and made into brick for furnace linings.

The Reporter was pleased to receive a call on Thursday from H. C. Robison, formerly of this place, but now of Milesburg. Mr. Robison is at the head of the Robison Brush Broom Company, which concern has been in operation since last September manufacturing brush brooms. The factory is located at Milesburg. Mr. Robison didn't ask us to believe all his words concerning the strong points which his broom possessed without our trying one out and accordingly presented the office with one of the brooms. Their general construction and the quality of the brush used well shows that they will outwear four or five of the common corn brooms. Success to Mr. Robison.

Out of Old Albania.

Save in Epirus, where Greek culture holds the towns, and even the Moslem Albanians of the hills write (when they can write at all) in Greek letters, no foreign influence has yet invaded the intimate life of this exclusive race. Individual Albanians have, indeed, given their talents to bring unity or order to the life of other peoples. Half the captains by land and sea of the Greek wars of independence were Albanians from Epirus or the isles. Crispi came from the Albanian colony in Sicily; the khedivial family imposed itself on Egypt; the last grand vizier of the old regime in Turkey was a South Albanian magnate. But no native church, no native literature, no local field for statesmanship has yet exercised the talents of a race which is certainly not the least gifted of the Balkan peoples. Until recently an Albanian educated was an Albanian lost.

The Real Need.

"Do you believe that we should have a more elastic currency?" asked the man who is always talking national finance. "Not much!" snorted the man with the shiny clothes. "It's elastic enough now. What they ought to do is make it more adhesive."

And Then Some.

It has been said that all the mean acts of his life are quickly brought before a drowning man. The same might also be said of a candidate for office.—Exchange.

MAIL SERVICE BY AEROPLANES

Routes to Be Established in Alaska and Massachusetts.

BURLESONEXPECTSSUCCESS

Plan Is To Create More Interest In Aviation In Connection With Preparedness—Six Weeks For Trip Now.

Washington.—Aerial mail service to isolated points in Alaska and Massachusetts is contemplated by the Postoffice Department.

Bids were asked for service on eight routes, seven of them in Alaska. October 1 is named as the date for their starting.

The routes will be established, the department announced, as much to stimulate development of aviation, because of its relation to military preparedness, as to improve the mail service. The department believes that efforts already begun to finance an aerial patrol of the Atlantic Coast indicate ready capital will be found for the mail service undertakings.

If the service is successful a gradual expansion will follow to other routes where transportation is slow and inadequate.

The Massachusetts route is from New Bedford to Nantucket, 56 miles and return, partly by land and partly by water. Trips would be made 13 times a week during the summer months and six times in the winter. An aeroplane would have to be able to carry a weight limit of 3,000 pounds. The present cost of the service is $23,000 a year.

The Alaskan routes form a connecting link from Seward to Nome, thence to Fairbanks and back to Valdez. Most of them call for a service twice a week throughout the year.

On some of the routes the cost now is as high as $100,000 a year and in winter six weeks is required to make the trip. The aeroplane contracts allow two days for most of the trips. The longest route, Valdez to Fairbanks, is 358 miles. The extreme time limit of six weeks on some of the routes is required because mail sometimes has to be routed via Seattle.

SIX MORE BODIES FOUND.

Total Dead In Ernest Mine Explosion Now Reaches 25.

Indiana, Pa.—Six bodies were added to the 19 already recovered from the mine of the Jefferson and Clearfield Coal and Iron Company at Ernest. This brings the total known dead to 25, and engineers from the Pittsburgh station of the Bureau of Mines, conducting the search, expressed the belief that no more bodies would be found. The men were buried under masses of earth and coal blown down by the explosion near the face of the entries. It was said that exploration of that part of the mine affected by the explosion had been completed.

DANIELS RETURNS DIME.

Declines To Accept Aid From Patriotic Young Girl.

New York.—Marjorie Sterrett, the Brooklyn girl who started a contribution to build a battleship for the cents in postage stamps to a newspaper and calling upon other children to contribute a dime each, has received a letter from Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, returning her 10-cent contribution forwarded by the newspaper.

Mr. Daniels wrote that the revenue required for naval construction "will be obtained by taxation in the usual manner," and that he believed individual contributions unnecessary.

CLEVELAND BAPTISTS LEAD.

First To Complete Their Portion Of Ministers' Pension Fund.

Cleveland.—Cleveland Baptists announced they have completed their campaign for $500,000 for permanent relief for aged pastors, begun May, 1915. It is the first block of $2,000,000 to be raised in the United States. Ambrose S. Wazey gave $200,000.

War Department Officials Resent Action Of Senate In Accepting Clark Amendment Extending Further Self-Government To Natives.

Washington.—Secretary Garrison resigned because President Wilson would not "irrevocably" support the continental army plan, and because he opposes the Administration's program of setting a definite time for Philippine independence.

President Wilson accepted the resignation and has not selected a successor. The President himself probably will take personal charge of the Administration's national defense plans in Congress.

Assistant Secretary Breckinridge also resigned as a mark of loyalty to his chief, whose views he shared. The President accepted his resignation. Both take effect immediately.

Major-General Scott, Chief of Staff of the Army, automatically becomes Secretary of War ad interim.

Garrison Insistent On Plan.

It is known that one of Secretary Garrison's principal reasons for his conviction that only a Federal continental army, instead of a reorganized National Guard, could be the main military dependence of the nation was his belief that some day the United States may be called upon to defend the Monroe Doctrine, and in that event he foresaw that the National Guard might not be available of use outside of the United States before a declaration of war.

Upon the contention, on the one hand, that the continental army or ultimately universal service was the nation's only reliance, and the position on the other that no one plan could be enforced upon Congress, President Wilson and his Secretary of War parted official company.

Third To Leave Cabinet.

Mr. Garrison is the third member of President Wilson's Cabinet to resign. The first, Justice McReynolds, resigned as Attorney-General to accept a seat on the Supreme Court. The second, William J. Bryan, resigned as Secretary of State because of differences with the President over the conduct of the submarine warfare controversy with Germany.

Garrison's Resignation Curt.

The letter of Mr. Garrison follows:

War Department,
Washington, Feb. 10, 1916.

My Dear Mr. President: I am just in receipt of yours of February 10th, in reply to mine of February 9th. It is evident that we hopelessly disagree upon what I conceive to be fundamental principles. This makes manifest the impropriety of my longer remaining your seeming representative with respect to these matters.

I hereby tender my resignation as Secretary of War, to take effect at your convenience. Sincerely yours,

LINDLEY M. GARRISON.

The President.

WILSON EXPRESSES REGRET.

In acceptance of the resignation, the President sent the following letter to Mr. Garrison:

The White House,
Washington, Feb. 10, 1916.

My Dear Mr. Secretary: I must confess to feeling a very great surprise at your letter of today offering your resignation as Secretary of War. There has been no definite action taken yet in either of the matters to which your letter of yesterday referred. The whole matter is under debate and all the influences that work for clarity and judgment ought to be available at this very time.

But since you have felt obliged to take this action, and since it is evident that your feeling in the matter is very great, indeed, I feel that I would be only imposing a burden upon you should I urge you to retain the Secretaryship of War while I am endeavoring to find a successor. I ought to relieve you at once and do hereby accept your resignation because it is so evidently your desire that I should do so.

I cannot take this important step, however, without expressing to you my very warm appreciation of the distinguished service you have rendered as Secretary of War, and I am sure that in expressing this appreciation I am only putting into words the judgment of our fellow-citizens far and wide.

With sincere regret at the action you have felt constrained to take, sincerely yours,

WOODROW WILSON.

The Hon. Lindley M. Garrison,
Secretary of War.

Miners at work in the Harleigh workings of the G. B. Markle Coal Company, brought to light the bones of two men entombed in that mine in 1876. They were James Murhis and Joseph Pearson. The cave was very extensive, it being impossible for the company then operating the mine to rescue them or even recover the bodies. The officials are gathering the bones carefully and will turn them over to relatives.

ASKS ARMORY FOR STATE COLLEGE

President Sparks Also Urges Outdoor Target Range In Reply To Governor—Armory Inadequate.

An outdoor target range and a commodious armory are needed by the military department of the Pennsylvania State College to attain an "A1" ranking by the Department of War. Dr. E. E. Sparks, president of the college, told Governor Brumbaugh that these two deficiencies are barring the college from higher standing in military circles. He offered the explanation in reply to the Governor's request for suggestions which would lead to improvement of the efficiency of the student regiment at the college.

According to President Sparks, the college sometimes has been criticised for insufficient time devoted to military instructions. He said the college of Pennsylvania does not give as much time as the institutions of other States with higher ranks, for the reason that severe winter conditions would not permit outdoor drill all year. He pointed to the fact that year-round drill is possible at the foremost State colleges because they have ample armory accommodations.

"The Pennsylvania State College," said Dr. Sparks, "has a so-called armory, now used as a gymnasium. This was constructed when there were only 250 students in attendance, and which scarcely would accommodate one company in drill." There are 1,200 students drilling. These are divided into twelve companies of one hundred men each.

Explaining further why Pennsylvania is forced to rank lower than other States in military efficiency, President Sparks told Governor Brumbaugh that the University of Illinois armory is 200 by 400 feet and cost about a quarter of a million dollars. He said that at Cornell University there was an armory which cost about the same amount. Both of them will accommodate easily 2,000 men in drill at the same time.

"I am aware that all the available State funds are demanded for the construction of armories for the National Guard. That is a necessary and useful expenditure. But sometimes in passing those splendid buildings I cannot help thinking of the number of soldiers trained in them and the number of hours a week they are used as compared with an armory at the college of the State in which 1,200 to 1,500 troops would be trained, and which would be in use three to four hours a day and five days a week," added President Sparks.

"The decision does not lay in your hands, Doctor Boyd," drawled a nasal voice with an unconcealed sneer in it. It was clean-shaven old Joseph G. Clark, who was not disturbed, in so much as the parting of one hair, by all the adverse criticism of him which had filled column upon column of the daily press for the past few days. "The rector has never, in the history of Market Square church, been given the control of its finances. He has invariably been hired to preach the gospel."

Sargent, Cunningham, Manning, and even Van Ploon looked at Clark in surprise. He was not given to open reproof. Chisholm manifested no astonishment. He sat quietly in his chair, his fingers idly drumming on the edge of the table, but his mutton-chop beard was pink from the reddening of the skin beneath.

"The present rector of Market Square church means to have a voice in its deliberations so long as he is the rector!" announced that young man emphatically, and Jim Sargent looked up at him with a jerk of his head. Rev. Smith Boyd was pale this afternoon, but there was a something shining through his pallor which made the face alive; and the something was not temper. Rufus Manning, clasping his silvery beard with a firm grip, smiled encouragingly at the tall young orator. "I have said that I have, so far as I am concerned, relinquished the building of the cathedral," the rector went on. "For this there are two reasons. The first is that its building will bring us farther away from the very purpose for which the church was founded; the worship of God with an humble and a contrite heart! I am ready to confess that I found, on rigid self-analysis, my leading motive in urging the building of the new cathedral to have been vanity. I am also ready to confess, on behalf of my congregation and vestry, that their leading motive was vanity!"

"You have no authority to speak for me," interrupted Chisholm, his mutton-chops now red.

"Splendor is no longer the exclusive property of religion," resumed the rector, paying no attention to the interruption. "If I thought, however, that the building of that cathedral would promote the spread of the gospel in a degree commensurate with the outlay, I would still be opposed to the erection of the building; for the money does not belong to us!"

"Go right on and develop our conscience," approved Manning, smiling up at the old walnut-beamed ceiling with its carved cherub brackets.

"The money belongs to Vedder court," declared the rector; "to the distorted moral cripples which Market Square church, through the accident of commerce, has taken under her wing. Gentlemen, in the recent revelations concerning the vast industrial interests of the world, I have seen the whole blackness of modern corporate methods; and Market Square church is a corporation! I wish to ask you, in how far the Market Square church has been swayed, in its commercial dealings, by moral considerations?"

He paused, and glanced from man to man of his vestry. Sargent and Manning, the former of whom knew his plans and the latter of whom had been waiting for them to mature, smiled at him in perfect accord. Nicholas Van Ploon sat quite placidly, with his hands folded over his creaseless vest. Willis Cunningham, stroking his sparse brown Vandyke, looked uncomfortable, as if he had suddenly been introduced into a rude brawl; but his eye roved occasionally to Nicholas Van Ploon, who was two generations ahead of him in the acquisition of wealth, by the prilliant process of allowing property to increase in valuation. Chisholm glared.

"You'll not find any money which is not tainted," snapped Joseph G. Clark, who regarded money in a strictly impersonal light. "The very dollar you have in your pocket may have come direct from a brothel."

"Or from Vedder court," retorted the rector. "We have brothels there, though we do not 'officially' know it. We have saloons there; we have gambling rooms there; and from all these iniquities Market Square church reaps a profit! For the glory of God? I dare you, Joseph G. Clark, or W. T. Chisholm, to answer me that question in the affirmative! No decent man would conduct the business we do, for the reason that it would soil his soul as a gentleman; and it is a shameful thing that a gentleman should have finer ethics than a Christian church! In the beginning, I was a coward about this matter! It was because I wished to be rid of our responsibility in Vedder court that I first urged the conversion of that property into a cathedral. We cannot rid ourselves of the responsibility of Vedder court! If it were possible for a church to be sent to hell, Market Square church would be eternally damned if it took this added guilt upon it!"

"This talk is absurd," declared Chisholm. "The city has taken Vedder court away from us."

"Only the property," quickly corrected Rufus Manning, turning to Chisholm with sharpness in his deep blue eyes. "If you will remember, I told you this same thing before Doctor Boyd came to us. I have waited ever since his arrival for him to develop to this point, and I wish to announce myself as solidly supporting his views."

"Your own will not bear inspection!" charged Clark, turning to Manning with a scowl.

"I'll range up at the judgment seat with you!" flamed Manning. "We're both old enough to think about that!"

Joseph G. Clark jumped to his feet and, leaning across the table, shook a thin forefinger at Manning.

"I have been attacked enough on the point of my moral standing!" he declared, his high-pitched nasal voice quavering with an anger he had held below the explosive point during the most of his life. "I can stand the attacks of a sensational press, but when spiteful criticism follows me into my own vestry, almost in the sacred shadow of the altar itself, I am compelled to protest! I wish to state to this vestry, once and for all, that my moral status is above reproach, and that my conduct has been such as to receive the commendation of my Maker! Because it has pleased Divine Providence to place in my hands the distribution of the grain of the fields, I am constantly subject to the attacks of envy and malice! It has gone so far that I, last night, received from Rev. Smith Boyd, a request to resign from this vestry!" He paused in triumph on that, as if he had made against Rev. Smith Boyd a charge of such ghastly infamy that the young rector must shrivel before his eyes. "I have led a blameless life! I have never smoked nor drunk! I have paid every penny I ever owed and fulfilled every promise I ever made. I have obeyed the gospel and partaken of the sacraments, and the Divine Being has rewarded me abundantly! He has chosen me, because of my faithful stewardship, to gather the food of earth from its sources and feed it to the mouths of the hungry; and I shall not depart from my stewardship in this church, because I am here, as I am everywhere, by the will of God!"

Perhaps W. T. Chisholm was not shocked by this blasphemy, but the dismay of it sat on every other face, even on that of Nicholas Van Ploon, who was compelled to dig deep to find his ethics.

"You infernal old thief!" wondered Manning, recovering from his amazement. "Was it Divine Providence which directed you to devise the scheme whereby the railroads paid you two dollars rebate on every car of wheat you shipped, and a dollar bonus on every car of wheat your competitors shipped? I could give you a string of sins as long as the catechism, and you dare not deny one of them, because I can prove them on you! And yet you have the effrontery to say that a Divine Providence would establish you in your monopoly, by such scoundrelly means as you have risen to become the greatest dispenser of self-advertising charities in the world! You propose to ride into heaven on your universities and your libraries and on the fact that you never smoked nor drank nor swore nor gambled; but when you come face to face with this horrible new god you have created, a deity who would permit you to attain wealth by the vile methods you have used, you will find him with a pitchfork in his hands! I am glad that Doctor Boyd, though knowing your vindictive record, has had bravery enough to demand your resignation from this vestry! I hope he receives it!"

Joseph G. Clark had remained standing, and his head shook, as with palsy, while he listened to the charge of Manning. He was a very old man, and it had been quite necessary for him to restrain his passions throughout his life.

"You will go first!" he shouted at Manning. "I am impregnable; but you have no business on this vestry! You can be removed at any time an examination is ordered, for I have heard you, we have all heard you, deny the immaculate conception, and thereby the divinity of Christ, in whom alone there is salvation!"

A hush like death fell on the vestry. Rev. Smith Boyd was the first to break the ghastly silence.

"Gentlemen," said he, "I do not think that we are in a mood today for further discussion. I suggest that we adjourn."

His voice seemed to distract the attention of Clark from Manning at whom he had been glowering. He turned on Rev. Smith Boyd the remainder of the wrath which marked his first break into senility.

"As for you!" he snarled, "you will keep your fingers out of matters which do not concern you! You were hired to preach the gospel, and you will confine your attention to that occupation, preaching just what you find sanctioned in this book; nothing more, nothing less!" and taking a small volume which lay on the table, he tossed it in front of Rev. Smith Boyd.

It was the Book of Common Prayer, containing, in the last pages, the articles of Faith.

Clark seized his hat and coat, and strode out of the door, followed by the red-faced Chisholm, who had also been asked to resign. Nicholas Van Ploon rose, and shook hands with Rev. Smith Boyd.

"Sargent has told me about your plan for the new tenements," he stated. "I am in favor of buying the property."

"We'll swing it for you, Boyd," promised Jim Sargent. "I've been talking with some of the other members, and they seem to favor the idea that the new Vedder court will be a great monument. There'll be no such magnificent charity in the world, and no such impressive sacrifice as giving up that cathedral! I think Cunningham will be with us, when it comes to a vote."

"Certainly," interposed Nicholas Van Ploon. "We don't need to make any profit from those tenements. The normal increase in ground value will be enough."

"Yes," said Cunningham slowly. "I am heartily in favor of the proposition."

"Coming along, doctor?" invited Manning, going for his coat and hat.

"No, I think not," decided Rev. Smith Boyd quietly.

He was sitting at the edge of the table facing the Good Shepherd, at the edge of whose robe still sparkled crystalline light, and in his two hands he thoughtfully held the Book of Common Prayer.

CHAPTER XXX.

Hand in Hand.

Rev. Smith Boyd walked slowly out into the dim church, with the little volume in his hand. The afternoon sun had sunk so low that the illumination from the stained-glass windows was cut off by the near buildings, and the patches of ruby and of sapphire, of emerald and of topaz, glowed now near the tops of the slender columns, or mellowed the dusky spaces up amid the arches.

It was hushed and silent there, deserted, and far from the thoughts of men. The young rector walked slowly up the aisle to a pew in the corner near the main entrance, and sat down, still with the little Book of Common Prayer in his hand, and, in the book, the Articles of Religion. From them alone must he preach; nothing more and nothing less. That was the duty for which he was hired. His own mind, his own intelligence, the reason and the spirit and the soul which God had given him were for no other use than the clever support of the things which were printed here. And who had formulated these articles? Men; men like himself.

Rev. Smith Boyd suddenly made the discovery that he was not preaching God! He was preaching the church and its creed!

Startled, now, he went through the thirty-nine Articles of Religion, one by one, slowly, thoughtfully, and with a quickened conscience. Reason knocked at the door of Faith, and entered; but it did not drive out Faith. They sat side by side, but each gave something to the other. No, rather, Reason stripped the mask from Faith, tore away the disguising cloak, and displayed her in all her simple beauty, sweet and gentle and helpful. What was the faith he had been called upon to teach? Faith in the thirty-nine Articles of Religion! This had been cleverly substituted by the organizers of an easy profession, for faith in God, which latter was too simple of comprehension for the purposes of any organization.

For a long time Rev. Smith Boyd sat in the corner pew, and when he had closed the book, all that had been behind the wall of his mind came out and was sorted into heaps, and the bad discarded and the good retained. He found a wonderful relief in that. He had lived with a secret chamber in his heart, hidden even from himself, and now that he had opened the door, he felt free. Above him, around him, within him, was the presence of God, infinite, tender, easy of understanding; and from that God, his God, the one which should walk with him through life his friend and comforter and counselor, he stripped every shred of pretense and worthless form and useless ceremony!

"I believe in God the Creator; the Maker of my conscience; my Friend and Father." The creed of Gail!

For a moment the rector stood, tall and erect, then he stretched forth his arms:

"I know that my Redeemer liveth!" he said, and sank to his knees.

Two high points he had kept in his faith, points never to be shaken; the existence of his creator, his mercy and his love, and the divinity of his son, who died, was crucified and buried, and on the third day arose to ascend unto heaven. Reason could not destroy that citadel in a man born to the necessity of faith! Man must believe some one thing. If it was as easy, as he had once set forth, to believe in the biblical account of the creation of the world as to believe in a pre-existent chaos, out of which evoluted the spirit of life, and all its marvels of growing trees and flying birds and reasoning men, it was as easy to go one step further, and add the son to the father and to the holy ghost! Even chaos must have been created!

Fully satisfied, Rev. Smith Boyd walked into the vestry, and wrote his resignation from the rectorship of Market Square church, for he could no longer teach, and preach, faith—in the thirty-nine articles of religion! Within his grasp he had held a position of wealth, of power, of fame! He scarcely considered their loss; and in the ease with which he relinquished them, he knew that he was self-absolved from the charge of using his conscience as a ladder of ambition! If personal vanity had entered into his desire to build the new cathedral, it had been incidental, not fundamental. It made him profoundly happy to know this with positiveness.

He called up the house of Jim Sargent, and asked for Gail.

"Come over," he invited her. "I want to see you very much. I'm in the church. Come in through the vestry."

"All right," was the cheerful reply. "I'll be there in a minute."

He had been very sly! He was tremendously pleased with himself! He had kept out of his voice all the longing, and all the exultation, and all the love! He would not trust even one vibration of his secret to a cold telephone wire!

He set the door of the vestry open wide. Within the church, the organist had conquered that baffling run in the mighty prelude of Bach, and the great dim spaces up amid the arches were pulsing in ecstasy with the tremendous harmony. Outside, upon the background of the celestial strain, there rose a fluttering, a twittering, a cooing. The doves of spring had returned to the vestry yard.

Just a moment and Gail appeared, poised in the doorway, with a filmy pink scarf about her shoulders, a simple frock of delicate gray upon her slender figure, her brown hair waving about her oval face, a faint flush upon her cheeks, her brown eyes sparkling, her red lips smiling up at him.

He had intended to tell her much, but instead, he folded her in his arms, and she nestled there, content. For a long, happy moment they stood, lost to the world of thought; and then she looked up at him, and laughed.

"I knew it from your voice," she said.

He laughed with her; then he grew grave, but there was the light of the great happiness in his gravity.

"I have resigned," he told her.

That was a part of what she had known.

"And not for me!" she exulted. It was not a question. She saw that in him was no doubt, no quandary, no struggle between faith and disbelief.

"I see my way clearly," he smiled down at her; "and there are no thorns to cut for me. I shall never change."

"And we shall walk hand in hand about the greatest work in the world," she softly reminded him, "and there were tears in her eyes. "But what work shall that be, Ted?" She looked up at him for guidance, now.

"To shed into other lives some of the beauty which blossoms in our own," he replied, walking with her into the great dim nave, where the shadows still quivered with the underechoes of the mighty Bach prelude. "I have been thinking much of the many things you have said to me," he told her, "and particularly of the need, not for a new religion, but for a re-birth of the old; that same new impulse towards the better and the higher life which Christ brought into the world. I have been thinking on the mission of him, and it was the very mission to the need of which you have held so firmly. He came to clear away the thorns of creed which had grown up between the human heart and God! The brambles have grown again. The time is almost ripe, Gail, for a new quickening of the spirit; for the second coming."

She glanced at him, startled.

"For a new voice in the wilderness," she wondered.

"Not yet," he answered. "We have signs in the hearts of men, for there is a great awakening of the public conscience throughout the world; but before the day of harvest arrives, we must have a sign in the sky. No great spiritual revival has ever swept the world without its attendant supernatural phenomena; for mysticism is a part of religion, and will be to the end of time. Reason, by the very nature of itself, realizes its own limitations, and demands something beyond its understanding upon which to hang its faith. It is the need of faith which distinguishes the soul from the mind."

"A sign," mused Gail, her eyes aglow with the majesty of the thought.

"It will come," he assured her, with the calm prescience of prophecy itself. "As no great spiritual revival has ever swept the world without its attendant supernatural phenomena, so no great spiritual revival has ever swept the world without its concreted symbol which men might wear upon their breasts. The cross! What shall be its successor? A ball of fire in the sky? Who knows! If that symbol of man's spiritual rejuvenation, of his renewed nearness to God, were, in reality, a ball of fire, Gail, I would hold it up in the sight of all mankind though it shriveled my arm!"

The thin treble note stole out of the organ loft, pulsing its timid way among the high, dim arches, as if seeking a lodgment where it might fasten its tiny thread of harmony, and grow into a song of new glory, the glory which had been born that day in the two earnest hearts beneath in the avenue of slender columns. The soft light from one of the clerestory windows flooded in on the compassionate son of man above the altar. The very air seemed to vibrate with the new inspiration which had been voiced in the old Market Square church. Gail gazed up at Smith Boyd, with the first content her heart had ever known; content in which there was both earnestness and serenity, to replace all her groping. He met her gaze with eyes in which there glowed the endless love which it is beyond the power of speech to tell. There was a moment of ecstasy, of complete understanding, of the perfect unity which should last throughout their lives. In that harmony, they walked from the canopy of dim arches out through the vestry, and beneath the door above which perched the two gray doves cooing. For an instant Gail looked back into the solemn depths, and a wistfulness came into her eyes.

"The ball of fire," she mused. "When shall we see it in the sky?"

THE END.

EVIDENTLY A HOPELESS CASE

Obstinate Man Determined Not to Admit That the Dictagraph Had Helped Him.

A certain young man of Columbus who is so hard of hearing that he ofttimes carries a little dictagraph instrument with him to help him follow the conversation of his friends, was among some of his rural relatives last week. There happened to be a farmer in the vicinity who had not heard a word for years. The Columbus man was introduced to him and referred to his little instrument which helped deaf persons, and offered to demonstrate it to him.

"I can't hear through those things I have tried them all and none of them are any good," he said.

"Put this up to your ear and try it, anyhow," suggested the visitor. The farmer hesitated a while and then put one end of the instrument to his ear. To the surprise of the Columbus man the deaf farmer replied, when asked in a tone hardly above a whisper, 'Can you hear what I say?"

"Nope, I can't hear a word. These things don't do me any good."

"Would you acknowledge it if they would help you?" was then asked him in a still lower tone of voice, and the answer came back promptly: "Certainly I would, but I can't hear a word you say."

The Columbus man put the instrument back in his pocket and said to his rural friend, "A hopeless case."—Columbus Dispatch.

Flying War Horse.

A correspondent of the Milan "Corriere della Sera" reports the following story:

"An Italian lieutenant recently rode through one of the villages on the Isonzo front. He dismounted before the temporary quarters of the commander of his regiment and tied his horse to a tree. When he entered the house he heard the humming poise of a large Austrian shell and a moment later a terrible explosion followed. The shell had struck a small building on the opposite side of the street. An immense cloud of smoke and dust rose and when it disappeared the horse of the officer was gone.

"The air pressure caused by the explosion had lifted the animal from the ground and thrown it on the flat roof of a nearby house, where it was found almost unhurt. It was no easy job to get the horse to the street again, as this could only be accomplished with the aid of a large crane."

Origin of Grain as Measure.

The grain, as a measure of weight, has its name from being originally the weight of a grain of wheat. A statute passed in England in 1266 ordained that 32 grains of wheat, taken from the middle of the ear and well dried, should make a pennyweight, 12 of which should make an ounce, while 12 ounces were to make a pound.

The pound, therefore, consisted of 7,680 grains. But several centuries later the pennyweight was divided into 24 grains, which makes the troy pound 5,760 grains. The pennyweight was the exact weight of a silver penny. The standard grain was prescribed by act of parliament in the reign of George IV.

'Gene Field's Humor.

Eugene Field often liked a game of whist in the evening, when he could "drop in" and was not "specially invited." One Sunday night when leaving the house of a friend he called out loudly, for the benefit of the rigid church members connected with the McCormick Theological seminary, across the street: "No, Charles Henry, I shall never play poker with you again on Sunday night," much to the chagrin of Charles Henry, a model man who never indulged in poker on Sunday or any other night.—Elsie F. Weil, in McBride's Magazine.

DEATHS.

The death of John Elias Murray removes a highly respected and well known figure in Centre county. Mr. Murray died at the home of his son Jacob, at Lemont, Friday morning. About six weeks ago an injury sustained by falling on the ice confined him to his home until a week ago. Last Wednesday he made a trip to Bellefonte, walking the greater part of the distance. Owing to his advanced age the trip proved too great a task and when he returned to his home he was greatly fatigued. A severe cold developed following the exposure and he rapidly became worse until Friday morning when his son found him in an unconscious state in his bedroom. He was partially dressed when found, indicating that he had made an effort early in the morning to clothe himself. He died before medical aid could be procured.

Funeral services were held at his son's home Sunday afternoon and burial was made in the Rock Hill cemetery, Linden Hall, Rev. C. C. Shuey of Bellefonte officiating.

Deceased was a son of George Murray and was born at Linden Hall on what is now the Samuel Kreamer farm, June 1, 1835, hence was in his eighty-first year. He prepared himself for school teaching and taught a long term of years in various parts of the county. In the summer months he followed the carpenter trade. Later in life he conducted a general store at Lemont. In the 60's he enlisted as a Union soldier but was never called to the front.

He was twice married, his first wife preceding him to the grave forty-five years ago. Two children born to this union are dead. Later he married Mary Ann Steele of Pleasant Gap, who survives him with three children; namely, George, of State College; Jacob and Miss Belle, of Lemont. Of the original Murray family of ten children only two remain: Hon. Wm. A. Murray, of Boalsburg, and Mrs. Thompson Smith, of Huntingdon county. The late Jared D. Murray, of this place, was a brother.

Mr. Murray was a staunch Republican and also an avowed Prohibitionist. He was well versed on the topics of the day, being a prodigious reader.

On Monday morning Dr. H. H. Longwell received a telegram announcing the sudden death of his brother, Thomas Longwell, at Pittsburgh. He and his sister, Mrs. J. R. Barlett, of Pleasant Gap, departed Monday afternoon for their brother's home. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon, burial being made at Summerville, Clarion county. "Uncle Ephraim's Summer Boarders."

This is the title of a play to be rendered by home talent in Grange Arcadia, Thursday evening, 24th inst. Uncle Ephraim, a farmer, becomes financially embarrassed and to aid in lifting a mortgage held by 'Squire Brigge, advertises for summer boarders. A lawn party by the country folk at which the city boarders are guests, proves an interesting period. The mortgage is finally cancelled when Uncle Ephraim's daughter becomes the 'Squire's son's bride.

There will be plenty of music and character sketches, and at no time will the curtain be down.

State Agricultural Notes.

Altoona business men have organized the Pennsylvania Hog Company with a capital of $25,000, and will go into extensive hog raising business on a 471 acre farm.

Co-operative buying by farmers is a paying proposition for the Lancaster County Farmers' Association, which recently declared a six per cent. dividend, and added the sum of $2,000 to the surplus.

An increased acreage in potatoes is expected during the coming season on account of the high price which potatoes are bringing now. It is a practice among potato growers not to plant from their own crops, but to exchange for those grown on other farms. Farmers are now looking for good seed potatoes.

The best average prices for hogs were noted in the various counties of the state as follows: Schuylkill $15.00, Philadelphia $14.70, Cameron $14.30, Berks $13.90, and Allegheny, Clearfield and Somerset $13.80. The low price averages were established in: Franklin and Green $9.00, Indiana $9.30, Fulton $9.40, Potter $9.50, Crawford $9.65, and Cumberland $9.70.

There is an increase in hogs in thirty-five counties of the State over the number shown a year ago. Counties with the highest average increase are: Monroe and Sullivan with six per cent., Chester, Clinton, Snyder and York five per cent., and Armstrong, Blair, Carbon, Centre, Clarion, Huntingdon and Lancaster four per cent. Decreases of four or more per cent. are noted in Fulton, Montour, Susquehanna, Venango, Montgomery, McKean, Juniata and Erie counties.

Years ago potatoes were potatoes, and egg were eggs, but today the question of proper grading is very important. There must be an assortment in all farm market products in order that the buyer can have his choice and the better the grade, the better the price to be secured. Potatoes of a general size should be kept together, because a bushel of evenly graded potatoes is much more saleable than a bushel of large and small potatoes mixed together. Eggs of the same color should be graded in the same manner.

Public school pupils in Pike and Monroe counties are participating in dairy essay contests, under the supervision of the county superintendent of schools. In Pike county the subject is, "Why Ayrshires Fit Pike County Farming Conditions." In Monroe county the subject is, "Why Monroe County Farmers Will Profit by Keeping One Breed of Cattle." Pure bred registered Ayrshire calves are offered as prizes to the writers of the best essays.

Action was taken before the court forcing the board of county commissioners to appoint a sealer of weights and measures. There are a host of applicants, and today (Thursday) the commissioners will very seriously discuss the merits of the various candidates and perhaps come to a conclusion. Whoever is appointed, he no doubt will be amply able to acceptably fill the position, as all the applicants are men of good standing in their respective communities. The commissioner, no doubt, would be only too glad to give the position to each of the applicants, but since there are eighty or more times the number of applicants than it is possible to appoint, it is up to all aspirants to press their claims and be contented with the result. Don't go 'round with your nammer after an appointment is made.

On Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Rearick, of Milroy, came to Centre Hall to take home their daughter, Miss Elsie, who has been visiting at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Rearick. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Krise who were returning from their visit to Chicago and parts of western Pennsylvania.

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomaine-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from any druggist or storekeeper, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver kidneys and bowels.—Adv.

WHEN KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE GLASS OF SALTS

Eat Less Meat If Kidneys Hurt or You Have Backache or Bladder Misery —Meat Forms Uric Acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

Too many men pray for things they are too lazy to work for.

"CASCARETS" FOR SLUGGISH BOWELS

No sick headache, sour stomach, biliousness or constipation by morning.

Get a 10-cent box now.

Turn the rascals out—the headache, biliousness, indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out to-night and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse your stomach; remove the sour, fermenting food; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret to-night straightens you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love Cascarets because they never gripe or sicken. Adv.

FIRST REAL STEP TO STOP WORLD WAR

The Permanent Committee Meets at Berne.

TWO WEEKS' TRUCE SOUGHT

Pacifists Believe If They Can Bring This About, Fighting Will Not Be Resumed — Leaders Are Encouraged.

Berne, Switzerland. — The first definite move to end the world war was made here when the permanent committee to established lasting peace met to formulate proposals for an armistice.

Peace advocates from several neutral countries were in Berne for the meeting.

The committee hopes to obtain the consent of the belligerents to an armistice of at least two weeks before the spring campaigns bring fresh slaughter in Europe. They believe if the guns can be silenced for two weeks the fighting will never be renewed.

Several peace leaders said they were encouraged by the German Chancellor's recent Reichstag speech to believe that Germany will give benevolent consideration to any plans for an armistice. If they fail in their plans for a truce, they hope at least to suggest a program to the belligerents designed to eliminate some of the more horrible features of the war. One suggestion is that the belligerents pledge themselves to conduct no more air raids upon cities behind the battle front.

Prince von Beulow, former German Chancellor; Prince Hohenlohe and Baron von Kraft have arrived at Lucerne. It was reported they are in touch with the peace movement here.

German Peace Offer Denied.

London.—Reports that Germany had made peace overtures to the Belgian Government were officially denied by the legation. The following statement was issued by the British Government Press Bureau:

"The Belgian Government issued a statement that rumors which have been circulated to the effect that peace proposals have recently been made by Germany to the Belgian Government are devoid of foundation."

One Man Killed, Three Badly Hurt and Score Entombed.

Indiana, Pa.—One man was killed, three were seriously injured and a score entombed by a gas explosion in Mine No. 2 of the Jefferson and Clearfield Coal and Iron Company at Ernest, six miles from here.

The explosion occurred in an entry just off the main shaft of the mine. More than 100 men were at work at the time, but all managed to escape, with the exception of 37, who were trapped by falling rock and debris.

Rescue parties were at once organized and 13 of this number were brought to the surface several hours after the explosion. A number were seriously hurt.

TEUTONS WARN FOREIGN SHIPPING

Will Treat Armed Merchant Vessels as Warships.

A TIME LIMIT TO MARCH 1

German Government Gives Out List Of Armed British Merchant Vessels That Fired Upon Submarines.

Washington.—Germany and Austria have formally notified the United States that, beginning March 1, commanders of their submarines will consider armed merchant ships of the Entente Allies to be warships and will treat them accordingly.

Under such instructions commanders would be at liberty to sink without warning any armed vessel, whether passenger or freight carrying.

The notifications were presented orally to Secretary Lansing by Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, and Baron Erich Zweidinsk, charge of the Austro-Hungarian Embassy here. Notes from their governments are to follow.

The intention of the Teutonic Allies is considered in official and diplomatic circles here to be a development of the memorandum proposing the disarming of merchant ships, which Secretary Lansing recently sent to the Entente Powers. High officials of the State Department seemed disposed to consider the development broad enough to warrant the claim that the fundamental questions involved in the conduct of submarine warfare have been settled in accordance with the contentions of the United States. This is based on the belief that with Germany and Austria giving notice that they will sink without warning all armed ships, the two governments cannot legally claim the right to sink unarmed vessels. That is the principle for which the United States has so vigorously contended since the beginning of the negotiations over the conduct of submarine warfare.

At Their Own Risk.

In view of this situation American citizens, it is stated by high authority, now may be warned that they will take passage aboard armed merchant ships at their own risk and be entitled to no more protection from the United States than if they had embarked upon a belligerent warship. Officials seemed not to be able to conceive that any issue could arise in the future from a submarine warfare conducted under these rules.

It was said in Teutonic diplomatic circles that the effective date of the instructions was postponed solely for the reason that the Central Powers desired to give enemy merchant ships an opportunity to disarm and so that the Entente Allies might have the chance to make their views conform to the suggestions put forward by the United States in its memorandum.

INVOLVED IN THE MUNITION PLOT

German and Turkish Officials Indicted in San Francisco.

AIMED AT MUNITIONS TRADE

Plot To Blow Up Railway Tunnels In Canada Among Accusations—Turkish Consul-General Accused Of Helping Supply Warships.

Washington.—Weeks of investigation by agents of the Department of Justice resulted in the voting of indictments by a Federal grand jury in San Francisco against prominent figures in what are considered here to be two of the boldest plots involving questions of American neutrality that have been uncovered since the European war began.

Among those against whom indictments were voted, according to a message received here, are Franz Bopp, German Consul-General; Baron E. H. von Schack, Vice-Consul of Germany, and Maurice Hall, the Turkish Consul-General.

Consuls Not Immune.

Consular officers do not enjoy the diplomatic immunity which ambassadors, ministers and attaches are given by international law, but are subject to the jurisdiction of the country in which they are resident and may be treated by the law as are any other persons. The indictments voted today, however, are the first which the Federal Government has attempted to secure against any foreign representative. This fact was taken to mean that hereafter the Administration intends to prosecute, wherever prosecution will lie, any offender against American neutrality.

Bopp and von Schack are charged with complicity in the plot which was first uncovered several weeks ago with the arrest of C. C. Crowley, alleged to be a pro-German, who had undertaken to cripple the American output of munitions of war and in other ways to help the cause of the Teutonic allies. Bopp is accused of being the head of a conspiracy which hoped to accomplish this end by interfering with trade in munitions and preventing railway shipments by blowing up two tunnels on Canadian roads.

The indictment of the Turkish Consul-General was voted in connection with the use of the steamer Sacramento to supply German ships of war in the South Pacific which ended in the internment of that vessel by the Chilean Government many months ago. According to officials here, the Sacramento case is one of the clearest that has come to their notice of the use of an American port as a base of supplies for belligerent warships and of false clearance papers to get the supply ship past the customs authorities.

IS CHILD CROSS, FEVERISH, SICK

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sours, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Adv.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair and removes dandruff. It is excellent for failing hair and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv

Don't Neglect Kidneys

It is now conceded by physicians that the kidneys should have more attention as they control the other organs to a remarkable degree and do a tremendous amount of work in removing the poisons and waste matter from the system by filtering the blood.

The kidneys should receive some assistance when needed. We take less exercise, drink less water and often eat more rich, heavy food, thereby forcing the kidneys to do more work than nature intended. Evidence of kidney trouble, such as lame back, annoying bladder troubles, smarting or burning, brickdust or sediment, sallow complexion, rheumatism, maybe weak or irregular heart action, warns you that your kidneys require help immediately to avoid more serious trouble.

An ideal herbal compound that has had most remarkable success as a kidney and bladder remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. There is nothing else like it. It is Dr. Kilmer's prescription used in private practice and it is sure to benefit you. Get a bottle from your druggist.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Spirit of Washington WITH US TODAY

ONCE again, as the anniversary of his birthday rolls around, we contemplate the life and accomplishments of our nation's father. The United States of America is now in the midst of a great crisis—one of three. The first was the desperate struggle of the baby republic to maintain life between 1776 and 1815. The second was the terrific fever which rattled the bones of the half-grown nation from 1861 to 1865. The third is different.

The hungry, blood-mad wolves of war are snarling all about us. We are charged with the problem of taking means of defense against the time when they may turn from their carcasses to attack us. We must insure for ourselves prosperity. For the good of the whole we must assume the task of harmonizing all the multitude of discordant and misunderstanding groups of people that compose our body politic—men and women of a great variety of racial antecedents, of political tenets, of religious beliefs, of capital and labor, of education and ignorance—and weld them into one great patriotic mass. We must keep friendship with our neighbors to North and South and across the seas.

So in this time of stress it behooves us to keep our national temper and deal fairly and mean what we say. It is well worth while to consider the historian Lecky's description of George Washington:

"In the despondency of long continued failure, in the elation of sudden success, at times when his soldiers were deserting by hundreds, and when malignant plots were formed against his reputation, amid the constant quarrels, rivalries, and jealousies of his subordinates, in the dark hour of national ingratitude, and in the midst of the most universal and intoxicating flattery, Washington was always the same calm, wise, just and single-minded man, pursuing the course which he believed to be right without fear or favor or fanaticism; equally free from the passions that spring from interest and from the passions that spring from imagination.

"He never acted on the impulse of an absorbing or uncalculating enthusiasm, and he valued very highly fortune, position, and reputation; but at the command of duty he was ready to risk and sacrifice them all.

"He was, in the highest sense of the words, a gentleman and a man of honor, and he carried into public life the standard of private morals.

"It was at first the constant dread of large sections of the American people that if the old government were overthrown they would fall into the hands of military adventurers and undergo the yoke of military despotism. It was mainly the transparent integrity of the character of Washington that dispelled the fear."

There has rarely been a time when the people had more need of the lessons of Washington's life than now. We are in the midst of the uncertainties visited upon us, as a people at peace, by a conflagration which has enveloped a continent in war. In a year of peace, of sowing and reaping, of the productive activities of market and factory, we suddenly found ourselves face to face with the peril of such a panic as the world had never witnessed. Industry withered as under a blight; trade dried up at the roots; our chief export crop lost for a time two-thirds of its value; specie payments were suspended in our financial centers. Instead of having heavy trade balances in our favor, we were called upon for gold by the ton to pay for securities sent back to us by foreign investors. Want and destitution appeared where there had been plenty.

We have come far since those black days, but a dangerous road still stretches before us. Let us remember Washington, the commander in chief of one battle.

That was Yorktown. Washington took the command of the armies of the colonies in July, 1775. He received the surrender of Cornwallis in October, 1781, more than six years later. These six years were spent in avoiding battle. There was one brilliant sortie—the battle of Trenton. But the history of his campaigns is the history of skillful retreats, like that which followed Trenton, rear-guard actions, defensive fights when attacked, disastrous offensive movements like that on Germantown.

He had no government behind him—only a loose confederation of colonies, which refused to pay their levies and left him at one time with a discouraged remnant of only 3,000 soldiers. He avoided battle with the British; he used the arts of the Indian fighter and slipped out of the very jaws of disaster; he moved from place to place. But he could not evade hunger, cold, nakedness, dissension, discouragement. These met him in frontal attack. The siege of Yorktown was a splendid thing—but the real test came at Valley Forge. When at last the hour came to fight, fighting was easy by comparison with the waiting that had preceded it.

To bring men to be well acquainted with the duties of a soldier requires time. To bring them under proper discipline and subordination not only requires time but is a work of great difficulty and in this country, where there is so little distinction between the officers and soldiers, requires an uncommon degree of attention. To expect the same service from raw and undisciplined recruits as from the veteran soldiers is to expect what never did and perhaps never will happen.—Washington.

On July 2, 1775, General Washington arrived at Cambridge, Mass., accompanied by Major General Lee, his next in command, and other officers, and established headquarters in the mansion subsequently occupied by Longfellow. About nine o'clock on the morning of the following day, attended by a suitable escort, he proceeded from his headquarters to a great elm tree near Harvard college. Here the Continental forces were drawn up in military order. Under the shadow of the tree Washington drew his sword as commander in chief of the American army, declaring that it should never be sheathed until the liberties of his country were established.

Finally the day came for Washington to take leave of his army—October 18, 1783. For the last time he assembled them at Newburgh, N. Y., when he rode out on the field and gave them one of those paternal addresses which so eminently characterized his relationship with his army.

But his final leave of everything connected with his military life was taken on December 3, 1783, at Faunces' tavern, New York city. Here he had requested his officers in full uniform to assemble. On entering the room and finding himself surrounded by his old companions in arms his agitated feelings overcame his usual self-control. Every man arose with eyes turned toward him. Filling a glass of wine and lifting it to his lips, he rested his benignant but saddened countenance upon them and said:

"With a heart full of love and gratitude, I now take leave of you. I most devotedly wish that your latter days may be as prosperous as your former ones have been honorable and glorious. I cannot come to each of you and take my leave, but shall be obliged to you if each of you will come and take me by the hand."

A profound silence followed as the officers gazed at the countenance of their leader, while the eyes of all were wet with tears. He then expressed again his desire that each of them should come and take his hand.

One after another followed, receiving and returning the affectionate adieu of their commander, after which he left the room in silence, followed by his officers in procession to embark in the barge that was to convey him to Paulus Hook, now Jersey City.

As he was passing through the light infantry, drawn up on either side to receive him, an old soldier who was by his side on the terrible night of his march to Trenton, stepped out of the ranks and reached out his arms, exclaiming: "Farewell, my dear general, farewell!" Washington seized his hand most heartily, when the soldiers forgot all discipline, rushed toward their chief and bathed him with their tears. The scene was like that of a good patriarch taking leave of his children and going on a long journey whence he might return no more.

Having entered the barge, he turned to the weeping company upon the wharf and, waving his hat, bade them a silent adieu. They stood with heads uncovered until the barge was hidden from their view, when, in silent and solemn procession, they returned to the place where they had assembled.

Napoleon Bonaparte said: "Posterity will talk of Washington with reverence, as the founder of a great empire, when my name shall be lost in the vortex of revolution."

Like so many other of the prophecies of the great Napoleon, its truth is becoming more and more apparent every day. A little more than 116 years ago, Washington died at Mount Vernon at the age of sixty-eight, after an illness of only 24 hours, in 1799.

SECOND HELEN KELLER, 16

State Cares for Miss Frick, Who Was Born, Deaf, Dumb and Blind.

Philadelphia. — Katheryne May Frick, a deaf, dumb and blind ward of the state for whom the Pennsylvania legislature makes an appropriation at each session, will celebrate her sixteenth birthday on Thursday.

Seven years ago Katheryne came to the care of the state from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Frick of Harrisburg. Her mind was totally undeveloped and she was absolutely helpless. The girl now speaks with a clear enunciation, though she has never heard a word spoken, is well informed on all current subjects, uses a typewriter and does about everything within certain limitations that any normal girl can do.

For seven years she has been under the care of Miss Mabel P. Whitman, and is pronounced almost the equal of Helen Keller.

Katheryne has a topographical map on which she follows the course of the various military campaigns in Europe.

New Strength for Lame Backs and Worn-out Conditions

Dear Mr. Editor:

I suffered from lame back and a tired, worn-out feeling. Was unable to stand erect and scarcely able to get around. It would usually come on at first with crick in small of my back. It is the best remedy I have ever taken for what it is intended to relieve.

Etiquette Above Hunger.

A wanderer in the wilderness and without food, the hapless city sportsman was found at last in an advanced stage of exhaustion. His rescuers propped him up against a tree trunk and offered him a cup of steaming broth. Feebly he waved them away.

"Come, old man, take a little," said they, again offering the cup.

A spasm, as of distress, passed over the city man's face.

"You—you are serving on the wrong side," he corrected in a whisper.

For he had been brought up in a home where only the very best table manners prevailed, and he had often corrected a new waitress for the same fault.—Puck.

Punished.

"What is that horrible looking effigy they've got stuck up in the middle of the public square?" asked the city man of the landlord of the Punkville arms.

"That sir," replied the landlord, "is the statue of Silas W. Punk, the man who founded Punkville."

"Founded Punkville, eh? Well, if that's the case he richly deserved what the artist did to him."

Obliging to All.

"Is Miss Triller an obliging singer?"

"Oh, yes; half the time she refuses to sing."

One should learn to talk well—also when it is well not to talk.

A GOOD CHANGE.

A Change of Food Works Wonders.

Wrong food and drink cause a lot of trouble in this world. To change is first aid when a person is ill, particularly from stomach and nervous troubles. As an illustration: A lady in Mo. was brought around to health again by leaving off coffee and some articles of food that did not agree with her.

She says:

"For a number of years I suffered with stomach and bowel trouble which kept getting worse until I was ill most of the time. About four years ago I left off coffee and began using Postum. My stomach and bowels improved right along, but I was so reduced in flesh and so nervous that the least thing would overcome me.

"Then I changed my food and began using Grape-Nuts in addition to Postum. I lived on these two principally for about four months. Day by day I gained in flesh and strength until the nervous trouble had disappeared. I feel that I owe my health to Postum and Grape-Nuts.

"Husband was troubled, for a long time, with occasional cramps, and slept badly. Finally I prevailed upon him to leave off coffee and take Postum. After he tried Postum for a few days he found that he could sleep and that his cramps disappeared. He never went back to coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum comes in two forms:

Postum Cereal—the original form—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—a soluble powder—dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water, and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

Both kinds are equally delicious and cost about the same per cup.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

DEATH OF A. S. BAILEY.

The death of A. S. Bailey, a former prominent citizen, occurred at the home of his son, George Bailey, in the state of Oregon, February 1st. His son found him cold in death. Armstrong Stewart Bailey was the oldest son of John and Nancy Goheen Bailey and was born in the village that bears his name, Jan. 10, 1838. His young days were spent on the home farm in the Glades. He entered Farm School in the fall of 1860, when only 35 scholars were enrolled. When the call came for troops he enlisted in Co. E, 45th P. V. Regiment and served for four years, participating in seventeen hard fought battles; he was twice wounded and captured and spent eight months in Libby prison. Later he was promoted to 2nd Lieut. He was a descendant of a long line of patriots, one grand-uncle serving in the Revolutionary war and another in the war of 1812. He is survived by his wife, one son and several grandchildren. Also two brothers—G. W., of Kansas, and Warren S., of Illinois—and two sisters—Mrs. D. R. Grazing, of Neffs Mills, and Mary of Kansas City. He was a loyal G. A. R. member; they with the S. of V. and S. W. V. laid him to rest Tuesday, the G. A. R. post being in charge.

Snyder county will be "wet" in every quarter for another year. Last Friday Judge Johnson and two associates granted all of the sixteen retail and one wholesale liquor licenses. The judges ignored remonstrances against several houses.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
